

M&A-support for logistics-affine companies as well as financial investors

Mergers & Acquisitions (M&A) are playing an increasingly important role in the logistics environment. Both strategists and financial investors endeavor to acquire logistics services providers, logistics IT companies and logistics equipment manufacturers – and normally seek external support for this purpose.

Rely on our experience and our broad range of due diligence services

For over 10 years Miebach Consulting has been successfully providing support to strategic and financial investors within the scope of logistics transactions, both on the buyer's and seller's part. Our service portfolio ranges from the identification of relevant targets, through the initiation of first contacts, to the conduction of commercial, technical or IT due diligences. On the buyer's part there is usually an evaluation of the company to be bought (for a potential purchaser) whereas on the seller's part this mostly occurs in close collaboration with the accompanying investment bank.

Benefit from our worldwide network

Due to more than 40 years of market experience with logistics services providers, logistics IT companies and logistics equipment manufacturers as well as our worldwide presence with over 20 offices and more than 300 employees, we are able to support your due diligence in a quick and accurate way. We are often able to refer to our project experience with the company to be acquisitioned itself, but can also draw from our work for their clients and competitors, giving us an excellent impression regarding the company's performance, portfolio and customer image.

This enables us to support your acquisition considerations or selling efforts in a quick and accurate way: project experience with profound specialist capability worldwide.
